Delaware Hospice program honored

Published: Saturday, November 29, 2008 10:29 AM CST

Delaware Hospice was featured in a report released today by the National Priorities Partnership, a diverse coalition of 28 major national organizations working to transform healthcare in 2009 and beyond.

Delaware Hospice was pegged as a leader in the national movement to transform healthcare in Aligning Our Efforts to Transform America's Healthcare: National Priorities and Goals for their pioneering work with grieving children and teens, formalized in the New Hope Program.

Delaware Hospice's nationally recognized New Hope program provides counselors to assist children and adolescents in coping with the emotions associated with the loss of a loved one. Counselors listen, empathize, acknowledge feelings, and provide comforting support through one-on-one counseling, group support, workshops, therapeutic activities, ongoing communications, and a four-day summer camp where the children get to know peers who are facing similar hardships. Camp New Hope was created to provide an environment for children and adolescents to come together with others who have experienced a similar loss so that they know they are not alone.

"We're encouraged to see such innovation and good practice providing important direction for fundamental healthcare reform," said Janet Corrigan, President and CEO of the nonprofit National Quality Forum, which convened the National Priorities Partnership.
